BORAH FROM PULPIT WARS ON 4-POWER PACIFIC PACT

Far As He Is Concerned It Will Never Pass Senate, He Says

HITS AT JAPAN

Congregation Violates All Precedent With Loud Applause

(Trans-Pacific News Service Exclusive To The China Press)

Washington, Jan. 1.—Senator Borah declared war today on the proposed four-power Pacific treaty. From the pulpit of the Church of the Covenant within earshot of the homes of Secretary Hughes and Mr. Balfour, Senator Borah declared that as far as he was concerned the treaty never would be ratified in the United States Senate until it was entirely divested of the force and threat of war.

HITS AT JAPAN

Senator Borah asserted that the treaty should be amended to read as follows: "The high contracting parties agree to restore within one year and thereafter forever respect all rights, interests and territory of nations or governments having rights or interests in the region of the Pacific and failure to do so by any one of the contracting parties shall terminate all obligations under Article Two."

Senator Borah charged that this treaty is the product of the same kind of secret diplomacy which wrecked Former President Wilson's ideals at Paris. He declared that the Hughes program was magnificent because it was launched in the open, and it said it began to crumble when the doors were closed.

TIMS DEFEATED

The Senator declared that the action of the Conference limited the construction of obsolete capital ships, but left untouched the murderous submarine and other new weapons with which it was certain the next war would be fought.

The Senator declared that the four-power treaty was like all other alliances built on force and would provoke a counter-alliance consisting probably of Russia and China and lead to another war as the rivalries of the triple alliance and the triple entente had led to war in 1914.

Senator Borah spoke before an immense congregation which repeatedly violated all precedent of the house of worship by breaking again and again into enthusiastic rounds of applause.

MANY LOSE JOBS IN OFFICES OF PEKING CABINET

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Dec. 31.—Over 200 superfluous clerks in the Cabinet Office have been dismissed by the new Cabinet. Finding that the staff was unnecessarily large the Premier consulted the heads of the various departments and the head clerks at a meeting that lasted three hours. It was decided to retain men who fulfilled the following conditions:

1.—Those who held substantive posts.

2.—Those who had passed the civil examination.

3.—Those who had attended the Cabinet office every day.

The Bureaux of Civil Appoints, Statistics and Law Compilation have not yet been dealt with in this retrenchment scheme, but the personnel of these offices is now receiving the attention of the authorities and it is probable that sweeping reductions in staff will shortly be made.

Geddes Committee Urges New Cut In Naval Personnel

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 3.—It is reported in naval circles at Portsmouth that the Geddes' Economy Committee is recommending a reduction in the naval personnel, which has already been reduced to about 128,000, by 35,000 officers and men.

ARABIAN NIGHTS TO BE SHADED BY SHRINERS' BALL

How to turn the Town Hall into an Arabian Nights Palace is the problem on which Mr. H. J. Landis, chairman of the Shriners' Ball Decoration Committee, has been working for several weeks; and judging from a premature view of the results, Mr. Landis has Aladdin knocked for a row of canned genii.

The chief contributors to the Oriental effect next Thursday evening will be twenty-four great golden bowls set on pedestals eleven feet high and surmounted by the Shriners' crescent frosted in iridescent white. Concealed in each bowl will be three colored electric lights of sixty-candle power, which will illuminate the sparkling crescents and color the curls of incense smoke pouring from each bowl. The pedestals, which are black and gold, will stand on the edge of the ballroom floor and mark off a promenade between the dancing space and the wall.

In the center of the floor Mr. Landis is arranging an oasis of palms and a rippling stream. Cozy corners about the wall will consist of Oriental niches supported by gold-headed halberds and hung with Moorish draperies. The rumored camels will not put in an appearance, however, as these are being reserved for the Shrine ceremonial in January and there is a limit to the rough usage that even a camel will stand.

The music tomorrow evening will be supplied by Harry Kerry's orchestra. Supper will be served at eleven o'clock.

The invitations, limited to 1,000, are rapidly being disposed of and the committee anticipate that a considerable sum will be raised to meet the expenses of the ceremonial and the entertainment of visiting Shriners from San Francisco.

Invitations are obtainable on application to Mr. F. A. Bowen at the Asia Banking Corporation.

Begin Investigation Of Barroom Fracas

The two American sailors who are still in hospital as a result of the brawls in the Victoria and Tivoli bars Sunday night, when Engineman E. J. Reebey, of the U. S. S. Wilmington was fatally stabbed by an Italian bluejacket, are believed to be out of danger. The wounded men are Corporal Shanonga, of the Marine guard, and Seaman Gillian, both of the Wilmington.

Consular and naval officials, both Italian and American, are now engaged in an investigation of the affray and pending the outcome of their examinations no arrests have been made.

ANTI-FOREIGN OUTBREAK IN SHENSI AIMED AT AMERICANS

Action At Washington Is Given As Cause Of Demonstration

STUDENTS MARCH

All Aliens Cursed By Paraders Threatening Acts Of Violence

(Staff Wire to the CHINA PRESS)

Peking, Jan. 3.—Reports received at various legations in Peking of prolonged anti-foreign demonstrations in Sianfu, capital of Shensi province, in the Christmas holidays, by students who protested against acts of the Washington Conference, which they termed "hypocritical capitulation to Japan" have been confirmed by the receipt of letters and the stories of travelers just arrived from Shensi.

CURSE FOREIGNERS

During the demonstrations the students paraded the streets cursing foreigners of every nationality, particularly Americans and calling upon shop keepers to close their doors and to drive out of China or kill all foreign residents. One correspondent says the demonstrations were "like Hell let loose" He thanked God that they were over.

On Christmas day foreign residents were greatly imperilled. Drastic representations made to the civil and military governors by the commissioner of foreign affairs, it is believed, was the chief factor that prevented the shedding of blood. Previous representations had been unheeded. Appeals to Civil Governor Liu Chen-hua had been made, but the reply given was that "nothing could be done" owing to the absence of a firm stand by Tuchun Feng Yuh-siang, who was unwilling to assume opposition to the students' protests, and though he did issue an "anti-violence" order, he refrained until the last moment from taking active steps to suppress the demonstrations.

POSTERS APPEAR

Posters were distributed by the students, denouncing all foreigners, but singling out Americans for especial attention, alleging that America especially was guilty of "hypocracy" in its capitulation to Japan.

Great relief is felt in Sianfu that the demonstrations have been suppressed, for it was feared when the agitation was at its height that the massacre of foreigners at Sianfu of 1911 might be repeated.

SUES DOCK WORKS FOR ALLEGED CONTRACT BREACH

Hearing of a suit for $2,500 claimed by Mr. Ernest Beddall as due him for wrongful dismissal from the employ of the Shanghai Dock and Engineering Company, were begun yesterday before Mr. Justice Peter Grain in the British Supreme Court.

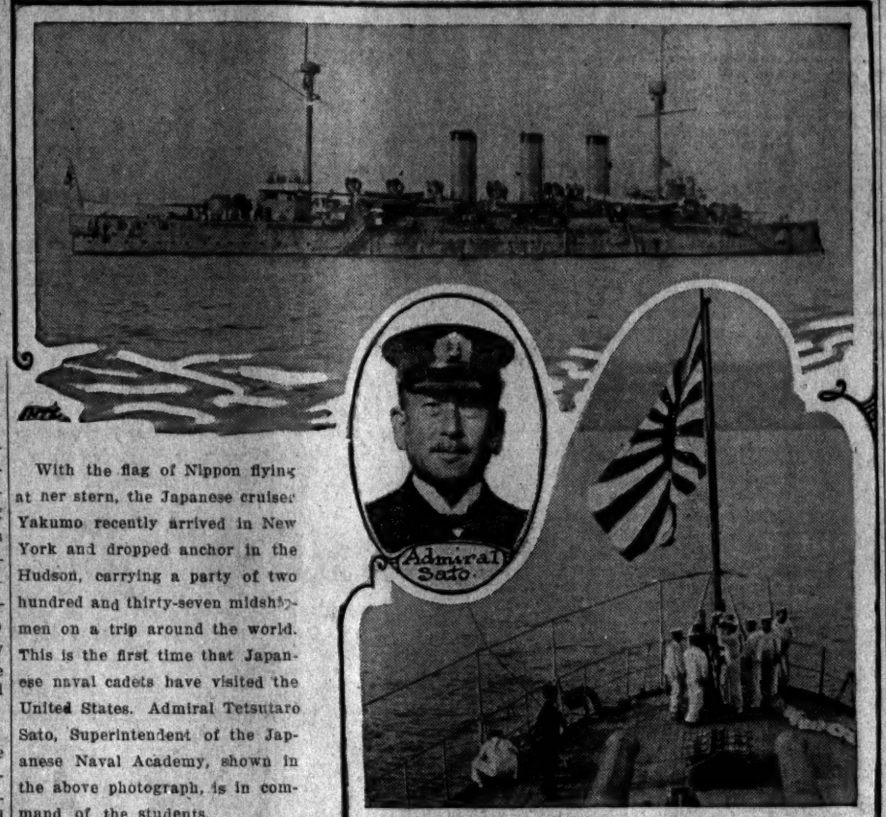
The plaintiff, represented by Mr. R. G. Macdonald alleges that he was engaged under contract on October 26, 1918 and that though he served faithfully and under adverse living and working conditions he was discharged unjustly and without cause after he had been ill for less than three weeks last June.

Plaintiff testified at some length and the case was later adjourned. Mr. Lipson Ward appeared for the defendants.

New Year's Thief Gets $32,000 Loot

The sum of $32,000—$12,000 in banknotes and $20,000 in cash and native drafts—was stolen on January 1 from 360 in Ningkong Lee, North Chekiang Road, occupied by a Chinese named Wu Sung-ling, proprietor of the Yung Lung Filature in Chapei, according to the Chinese press. The thief entered the house before dawn and succeeded in opening the iron safe in which the money had been locked. Hearing the footsteps of the thief, the gateman entered and asked the master to see whether anything was lost, but the thief was already gone when the theft was discovered.

Japanese Middies Touring World Arrive In New York



With the flag of Nippon flying at her stern, the Japanese cruiser Yakumo recently arrived in New York and dropped anchor in the Hudson, carrying a party of two hundred and thirty-seven midshipmen on a trip around the world. This is the first time that Japanese naval cadets have visited the United States. Admiral Tetsutaro Sato, Superintendent of the Japanese Naval Academy, shown in the above photograph, is in command of the students.

URGE WOMEN TO HELP RED CROSS IN LOCAL DRIVE

A plea for all members to join the Red Cross and to induce other Americans to do so was the point most emphasised at the meeting of the American Woman's Club held yesterday afternoon in the Carlton Cafe. Mrs. F. J. Raven stated that the drive workers would be under the leadership of Mrs. E. S. Cunningham and asked for volunteers who would promise to turn in the names of six new members. "A Red Cross button to be worn by every American in Shanghai within the next week" is the goal of the club volunteers.

In a brief talk on the work of the organisation, Dr. W. W. Peter spoke of the $10,000,000 spent last year for the relief of disabled soldiers, the help given to stranded Americans in the Far East, the $2,500,000 sent from America for the building of the Red Cross road by famine refugees, and the aid offered to Chinese who served in the A. E. F. and who wished to be kept in touch with their families.

Dr. Mary Woolley, president of Mt. Holyoke College, who is working in Shanghai as a member of the China Educational Commission, described the wide horizons of social service and appealed to every woman present to do her part in world reconstruction.

"There was a time when our conception of social service began, centered and ended in a college settlement," Dr. Woolley said. "We considered that we had done our duty if we visited the Settlement occasionally and paid our dues with some measure of regularity. We understand now that social service covers a far wider scope—that it is concerned with building up all that the war tore down. The war meant not only a destruction of world's treasure running into millions; it meant the destruction of ideals and the substitution of hate, fear, and inordinate ambition. This is seen in the constant disappointments of the Washington Conference, where cherished plans for world peace are continually threatened with destruction. Enough money goes into the building of a single first class battleship to build and equip four Princeton universities. The Red Cross, being a great constructive organisation, should appeal to women all over the world."

Dr. Woolley stressed the fact that women of the present generation have openings for social service undreamed of by their mothers and that foreign women in the Orient have greater opportunities and hence deeper responsibility even than those at home. Shanghai is in the center of world life today, the speaker said, both politically and industrially. The hurling of medieval China into the commercial twentieth century of the West and the consequent evils that follow the introduction of the factory system give rise to conditions that every

Chinese Newspapers Are Different Now

By Elsie McCormick

Taking for our banner head the old axiom that misery loves society of the same sort, we went out yesterday and visited three Chinese newspaper offices. And judging from all we heard and saw, Chinese journals have undergone some radical changes in the last few barrels of centuries.

The earliest Chinese newspapers didn't have any pagodas on the top, like the Eastern Times; or any billiard room for reporters like the Shun Pao, or even four rotary presses, like the Sin Wan Pao. It was ambulatory in character, and went to press every time the editor, circulation manager, and copy boy could find a convenient rock to sit on or an audience to listen to him.

The feature department consisted of two eyes, a nose, and a mouth; and an advertising section of a little brass gong to call the crowds together. Subscriptions were not payable in advance, the clientele keeping hold of their cash down to the last obituary before deciding whether or not the editor would eat that night. If he succeeded in furnishing them with a sufficient number of scandals; political rumors and fish stories, he was able to take up a collection. He would then add a few local titbits to his repertoire and issue another edition in the next village on the way.

The great advantage of this plan was that by the time the subscribers had a chance to verify the stories, the editor had traversed three rivers and four canals and was somewhere in the next province. It isn't so easy when you keep the same address the year 'round.

China likes murder trials as well as do the ladies at home who belong to Anti-Capital Punishment Leagues and send flowers to the condemned cells. Therefore whenever a homicide query was in progress at the yamen, the official publicity agent fastened a bamboo stick down his back with a fluttering banner attached, picked up the dinner-gong, and went on duty as a large type scarehead. We don't know whether the banner said, "Defendant Blanches When Confronted by Blood-Stained Garments of Victim—Woman Collapses After Long Grilling on Witness-Stand," in the style of certain leading moulders of public opinion at home, but the general sentiments were probably the same. China evidently still has a weakness for the grewsome, as one of the editors told us that his paper recently paid fifty taels for a graphic report of a hanging.

The Imperial Gazette in Peking was issued regularly as early as the Han Dynasty which was contemporaneous with the first European wife who said, "What would you amount to if you hadn't married me?" As the Gazette dealt principally with promotions, edicts, and bad colds in the Royal Family, it lacked the "Hints to the Lovelorn" and the snappy news items of an ordinary journal. China may be regarded as the originator of the magazine, for during the T'ang Dynasty a publication known as "Miscellaneous Records" appeared regularly with a full stock of articles and light fiction. Copies of it are still extant, though it vanished from the news stands while Shanghai was still a mud village.

The first daily news organ made its debut in 1872, when the Shun Pao fluttered down on Shanghai in the form of a single sheet of thin Chinese paper. Imperial pleasantries in the form of applying an axe to the vocal chords of indiscreet correspondents made journalism almost as exciting as being the heroine in a moving-picture serial. Being located in the International Settlement, the Shun Pao itself was under foreign protection, but the long arm of royal politics made life interesting for some of its writers in the provinces. The Shun Pao, says the editor, chose a local British paper for its model and thus formed the habit of putting advertisements on the front page—a practice still followed by all but one of the Chinese newspapers.

From the feeble little sheet printed on one side of the paper only and dealing exclusively with politics, the Shun Pao has grown into a many-paged daily with a guaranteed circulation of 35,000, and with departments covering every branch of news.

One of the most popular features is a weekly department in the Sunday supplement entitled "The Reconstruction of the Family," and devoted to a discussion of family relations, with special emphasis on the right of young couples to their own courtship and to a separate home after marriage. The daily feature page appears under the heading of "Common Sense" and according to the editor it discusses "commerce, apparel, moral culture and chemistry." Quite a wide range, we admit, though we don't understand how they came to omit Egyptology and the theory of symbiosis.

The Shun Pao building is a palatial structure, the fourth floor of which is devoted to a roof garden and recreation rooms for the use of the staff (Mr. Editor, please note). We have a golf course back of THE CHINA PRESS office consisting of a square foot of space to tee off and a sheet against which to hit the balls. The only trouble is that the ball usually bounces on the head of an expert hair-net mender on the second story of the next building, who never can seem to learn the meaning

CONFERENCE PROGRAM CLOUDED BY DEADLOCK ON SHANTUNG QUESTION

China and Japan Both Firm In Positions They Have Taken And Neither Dares Yield Further Concessions Which Might Not Be Tolerated By Public Opinion Of Respective Nations

RUMORS SPREAD CHINA MAY BOLT

Things Apparently Will Remain At Standstill Until America Or Britain Take Initiative To Find Solution Of Points At Issue

(Trans-Pacific News Service Exclusive To The China Press)

Washington, Jan. 2.—Clouds loom on the Conference program in connection with the Shantung railway deadlock as the old year fades. Both Japan and China assert they have reached the end of the concessions they are willing to make and neither dares to yield another inch because it is felt any further yielding on either side would not be tolerated by public opinion in the respective countries.

Washington is thick with rumors tonight that China may decline to have a part in the impending nine power treaty that directly concerns China, just as the nation declined to have a part in the Versailles treaty, unless complete justice is done in connection with the Shantung question.

More sensational rumors are to the effect that China will bolt the Conference as a last resort. Doctor Wang Chung-hui has hinted openly that he will appeal to the Conference as a whole if direct negotiations prove futile. Both American and British delegations are silent regarding the possibility of mediation by their countries.

Apparently the whole matter of discussion of Far Eastern questions is hung up until the Shantung problem is solved. Since the twentieth when China and Japan agreed to disagree pending receipt by the Japanese delegation of new instructions from Tokio no Far Eastern business of any kind has been transacted.

The Conference adjourned until January 2 and rapid progress with the unwinding of the naval program is hoped for in the course of the week. A number of the leading delegates already have department and January 20 is mentioned as the probable date of final adjournment.

BOTH SIDES FIRM

Washington, Jan. 2.—It is now believed here that neither Japan nor China will move to break the deadlock on the Shantung question. Things apparently are going to remain at a standstill until Great Britain or America take the initiative and seek to break the deadlock.

The United States at present is taking no hand in the Shantung problem, pending final settlement of naval issues. The subject at present engrossing Secretary of State Hughes is the codification of laws governing humane conduct of submarine warfare.

The various Far Eastern questions may be expected to assume prominence next week immediately after a plenary session of the Conference disposes of the naval program. Siberia, it is believed, will figure in the discussions and it is thought that Hughes is ready to espouse strong action by the Conference looking to evacuation of the Japanese from Siberia and from Saghalien with the concomitant declaration of the integrity of Old Russia.

An atmosphere of undoubted depression has been diffused by the stand of the French in connection with auxiliary warcraft, but other results of the Conference are held to be big enough to justify the United States in considering the Conference an epoch making success.

The view is gaining ground that the Pacific treaty will be submitted to the Senate in amended form eliminating the homeland of Japan, but this has not officially been admitted.

The Democratic organisation is seeking to spread the fiction that President Harding and Hughes are at loggerheads over the matter of prestige as it is alleged the President is jealous of the glory won by Secretary Hughes.

Washington, Jan. 2.—The press of the United States with few exceptions is denouncing the stand the French have taken in connection with the naval program. Certain apologists for France contend that the action taken at the conference is in retaliation for America's failure to accept the Versailles treaty and redeem promises made by former President Wilson.

Other papers say that the situation that has arisen may be ascribed to wounded French vanity caused because France was not consulted by America, Japan and Great Britain at the beginning of the conference.

The New York Times counsels patience with France and points out the complicated and difficult position of the domestic politics of the country. "The affair ought not to be regarded as offensive or critical," the Times says, "for it is unbelievable that France has any thought of taking the bit in her teeth and running away."

The New York Herald is mildly critical, but admits that France's attitude makes it impossible for other powers to effect the saving they would have made from scrapping warcraft and limiting auxiliaries as well as capital ships.

The New York Post says the cause of the French action is due partly to nerves, partly to temper and partly to policy. "The French position is unfortunate," the Post

AMERICAN SHIP FAILS TO SAIL; CAPTAIN HELD

Capt. Patrick Woods, master of the shipping board steamer West Jessup which failed to sail on schedule on Monday afternoon, denied charges of drunkenness and neglect of duty that were made against him by Capt. W. I. Eisler, Representative of the Shipping Board, yesterday in the court of U. S. Commissioner F. J. Schuhl.

Among witnesses who testified were Captain Eisler, American Vice Consul J. T. Wright, U. S. Marshal N. E. Lurton, who arrested Captain Woods, and Mr. C. E. Kline of the American Trading Company, agents here for the West Jessup. According to testimony given Captain Woods failed to appear on board his ship on Monday afternoon in time to sail with the tide and when officials and representatives of the ship's agents visited the vessel yesterday morning the several witnesses testified Captain Woods was under the influence of liquor and disposed to be turbulent.

Mr. R. S. Haskell of the firm of Roger and Haskell appeared for Captain Woods who testified and flatly denied the charges made against him. He said he had not sailed on Monday because he had not received notification from the ship's agents to sail. A decision in the case probably will be announced today by Commissioner Schuhl.

At the same time the Master of the West Jessup is involved in charges three members of the ship's crew, W. M. Wright, Anthony Garver and a third, arrested under the name John Doe, are being held by the American authorities on charges of drunkenness and will be tried before Commissioner Schuhl this morning.

CHINA HERE TODAY

Bringing 34 cabin passengers, 162 bags of mail, 400 tons of general cargo and 282 bars of silver bullion from San Francisco for this port, the China Mail steamer China will dock at 7:30 a.m. today at the China Merchants Lower Wharf.

The China will be despatched for Hongkong tomorrow.

continues, "but the case would be more serious if it was certain that the position taken will be permanent." The Post adds that the stand taken probably is not to be a permanent policy, and expects France to recede from the stand taken after Britain signifies a willingness to grant concessions in Europe.

The influential Baltimore Sun asserts that "the vital iniquity of the French position is that it makes possible even if it does not insure renewal of competitive naval building. That sort of competition leads forward." The Sun emphasises that France notifies America she is unable to pay even the interest on her debt and simultaneously demands the right to increase her fleet.

The New York Mail says that "If ever a great nation were badly served France now is being badly served by auctioneering swashbucklers who misrepresent her."

The New York Tribune defends France. The World bitterly attacks the stand announced by the French delegates and asserts that "what France is playing for is guarantees and by way of forcing them has adopted the sabre rattling tactics that once captivated one William Hohenzollern."

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Jan. 2.—The delegation of the Far Eastern Republic, which has come to ask for a hearing in regard to the Siberian question, has published alleged secret correspondence between Japan and France in regard to a supposed proposal made by the French and Japanese delegations to act in concert with the Washington Conference in respect of the establishment of a Japanese protectorate over Siberia, in connection with which it is alleged that France has promised to support Japan by all means in her power, provided that Japan takes into consideration French interests in the Chinese Eastern Railway, in Manchuria, and in concessions and participates in the restoration of Russia.

The French and Japanese delegations describe the allegations as forgeries and malicious fabrications.

M. Kammerer, the Director of the Far Eastern Department of the French Foreign Office, declared that the French Government had no communication whatever with Japan regarding a protectorate.

Mr. Hanihara declared that there was no shadow of truth in the documents as far as Japan was concerned, and that therefore they must be forgeries.

FRANCE "UNASHAMED"
(Special To The China Press)

Washington, Jan. 2.—An indication of the bitterness that has in the last few days marked the discussions on submarine limitations was seen in a statement made by the French delegation today.

"We have been given to understand that we would do well to pay our debts", said M. Sarraut. "We do not feel ashamed of them. Neither do we forget them. We regard them as proudly as a wounded man does his scars."

WILSON TO TALK?

Washington, Jan. 2.—Senator William E. Borah of Utah today discussed the Quadruple Treaty with Joseph Tumulty, secretary for Former President Wilson. The interview caused discussion as to whether Wilson's attitude on the new pact would be expressed. Neither said whether or not the former President's views were discussed.

COMMENT IS BITTER

London, Jan. 2.—The Daily Chronicle, commenting on the stand taken by the French with regard to submarine limitations, declares that "it is useless to try to find names for the plain ugly facts." By the French action, the writer continues, the greater part of the world's hope for limitation of naval expenditures has been imperilled.

JAPAN INQUISITIVE

(Reuter Pacific Service)

Peking, Dec. 31.—According to a Chinese report Mr. Obata recently asked the Waichiaopu whether the Chinese Delegation, in its conduct of affairs at Washington, was carrying out the direct orders of the Central Government, and Dr. W. W. Yen replied that instructions had been given to the Delegation regarding the matters being considered there, but that a certain amount of latitude had necessarily been given to the Delegation so as to make it able to meet the situations that might arise.

ADJOURNMENT NEAR
(Special To The China Press)

Washington, Jan. 2.—The delegates to the conference expect an adjournment of the Conference in two weeks. It is thought that the five power naval agreement will be completed this week and the agreement on Far Eastern problems next week.

One of the barriers between an early settlement of the Far Eastern question is the Chita accusation of a secret understanding between Japan and France regarding the Japanese policy in Siberia.

STILL DEADLOCKED

Washington, Jan. 2.—The Far Eastern question is still deadlocked. Indications are that the Far Eastern committee will meet within a few days and make their report. The Chinese delegates announced that they will then propose a transfer of the question in full to the Conference.

Mr. Hanihara of the Japanese delegation said that a solution is difficult unless China modifies its position and said that Secretary Hughes or Mr. Balfour may be asked to mediate but that Japan favored direct negotiations.

"We are ready to meet our Chinese friends at any time."

JAPANESE VIEWS GIVEN

(Reuter's Press Service)

Tokio, Dec. 28.—Both the naval limitation agreement and the Four Power Entente have called for more or less adverse comment in this country but not in responsible circles.

There are a few who are honestly disappointed with the Quadruple Entente because to them it does not appear to be a substitute for the Anglo-Japanese Alliance and only keeps the old Allies bound up in the same pact. There are others who are dissatisfied with the naval agreement. Some think that the insistence of the Japanese on a seventy percent ratio and the retention of the Mutsu did not represent the true attitude of Japan towards the original American proposals.

The ruling spirit of the country, notwithstanding this, welcomes both the naval agreement and the four power entente. These results of the conference are regarded as a step forward in the preventing of war and the averting of the international isolation of Japan. And Japan may be said to be watching with interest the settlement of the other important questions yet to be decided at Washington. Principal among these are the limitation of land armaments and the Sino-Japanese negotiations.

LAND ARMAMENT

The land armament limitation problem is one which is beset with many difficulties.

There are some in this country who believe that Japan is the heaven appointed defender of the Far East—and by the Far East they mean Japan proper, China and Eastern Siberia. They believe that at all times Japan should have an army large enough to defend these territories against invasion and to insure their peace, but this is mere conceit, and that the futility of such a stand is best evidenced by the fact that China is divided against herself, that Siberia is chaotic and that Japan despite the fact that these conditions are disturbing the peace of the Far East is powerless and helpless in so far as remedying the condition is concerned. Of course it will take some time to make the members of the army element see this.

Misgivings are felt here because America has opposed restriction of air forces, there is also a great deal of surprise over the fact that the Conference is giving so little attention to the subject of poison gas.

(Reuter's Service)

London, January 3.—Most of the Washington correspondents repudiate the genuineness of the alleged Franco-Japanese correspondence issued by the Chita Delegation, arguing on the ground of the clumsiness of the phraseology and the nature of the contents that the documents are forged.

One writer says that a glance shows that they are not only forgeries but are so clumsily concocted that they ought to deceive no one.

Nevertheless the opinion is expressed that the effect is bound to be deplorable, especially in connection with the frantic efforts in certain quarters of the United States to prevent the ratification of the Pacific and other agreements.

Obituary

MR. STEWART ST. C. NAZER

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Bubbling Well Cemetery for Mr. Stewart St. Clair Nazer, who died yesterday morning at his home, 110 Rue Marcel Tillot after a long illness.

Word of the death of Mr. Nazer who was familiarly known as "Tax," was received with sorrow by a large circle of friends here, particularly in sport and athletic circles in which the young man had been active. Mr. Nazer was in his thirty-sixth year, being born in Shanghai in 1886. He was educated in the Shanghai Public Schools and in England and joined the firm of Welch, Lewis and Company at an early age. When the company went into liquidation he assumed charge of the Insurance Department of Messrs. J. A. Wattie and Company, with whom he remained until the time of his death. He volunteered for service in 1915 and it was then that he discovered that he was afflicted with diabetes, the disease which subsequently caused his death.

Mr. Nazer is survived by his widow and by his mother, two brothers and a sister.

MR. CHARLES MARGES

Charles Marges, a resident of China since 1905, died at his home in Shanghai on New Year's day. Mr. Marges was head of the Strawbraid Import and Export Company, a business he founded in Tsingtao some years ago and transferred to Tientsin in 1915.

Mr. Marges came to China with the French Army in 1905 and was stationed at Tientsin. He left the army to take a position with the Tientsin offices of Racine, Ackerman and Company, which later became Racine and Company, but left this firm to establish his own business.

Funeral services were held Monday, the burial being in Lokawei Cemetery.

foreign woman should help ameliorate.

"Sometimes, when I contemplate the trials and dangers faced by China my heart goes down into my traditional boots," President Woolley said. "But then when I am most depressed, I usually meet a group of alert, clear-eyed, high-minded and idealistic Chinese men and women, who prove to me that there is still great hope for the country. It is with these groups that American women in the Orient should co-operate. The only Americanism that is worth while is the Americanism that tries to serve the rest of the world. Any other kind is unworthy of its founders."

Following the address the speaker was tendered a vote of thanks.

Announcement was made of a meeting of the Music Department to be held January twelfth at the rooms of Mrs. W. S. Bardarson in the Astor House at 5 p.m., when Mrs. M. C. Guss will present the subject of "Romanticism," assisted by Miss Austin, Mrs. Van Camp, and Miss Bostick.

The meeting of the Mothers' Department is scheduled for today.

LEICESTER HELD TO STAND TRIAL IN HIGHER COURT

G. B. Leicester, charged with having defrauded a number of Chinese by promising to get them service on various ships, was ordered held for trial in the higher court by Magistrate G. W. King of the British Police Court yesterday, bail being set at $500 from each of two sureties who must be British subjects.

Mr. J. C. Priestwood appeared for the defendant and stated that he had advised the latter to reserve his defense. Mr. F. C. Faithfull appeared for the police.

Steamer Founders On The Kaishan Bar

The Tung Yih Steamship Company's steamer Chin Chong, despatched from Chenkiakong December 29, has foundered on the Kaishan Bar—entrance to Hwankou—according to a telegram received by the manager from Captain Wikman, commander of the vessel. The telegram stated that the deck of the ship was submerged at hightide.

No further details of the sinking had been received at the local offices up to last night, but the management expressed the opinion that no lives had been lost.

MANY CHANGES NEEDED IN CHINA SCHOOL SYSTEM EDUCATOR SAYS

Dr. Monroe Of Columbia Gives Report On Survey

MIDDLE SCHOOLS WEAK

Block Gateway To Higher Learning And Create Waste

BY WES WILLIAMS

At the meeting of the American University Club in the Carlton Cafe yesterday, Dr. Paul Monroe was the guest of honor and only speaker. The meeting was in charge of Mr. C. T. Wang who acted as chairman. He introduced Mr. W. D. Murray, Chairman of the Foreign Department of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Dr. Monroe gave a report of his recent four month's investigation of the educational system of China. He was called to do this by the Chinese government. In all he visited eleven provinces.

"Education," said Dr. Monroe, "is as much a matter of business and politics as it is a technical question."

China has been at the task of modern education for only fifteen years. Modern education in western lands is less than a century old and this was preceded by another century of preliminary educational effort. This means that there are piled up in China a number of problems which in other countries came in sequence, such as the political, industrial and scientific problems.

Whenever anyone horrows, the external is imitated first while the substance comes later. China is still under the domination of the old educational ideals which existed for three thousand years. When we remember these things we will see an explanation of some of the difficulties and failures.

MUCH ACCOMPLISHED

China has accomplished more during this short period of time than is usually credited by foreigners. Certain features have been carried out very well, particularly in the primary school system. They have normal schools for training their primary school teachers. Some criticise the Chinese for this, but China is only doing in education what America and Great Britain are doing with their subsidised soldiers and sailors.

"I leave it to the judgment of those present," said Dr. Monroe, "which is the better kind of subsidy.

"Universal education is a problem of the first magnitude. I know of only one province in China where there is being made a serious attempt to realise this, namely in Shansi under the leadership of Governor Yen. He is an example of absolute despotism with the uplift motive predominating. During the last three years he has established 7,000 schools in new buildings or converted temples.

"The Chinese language is one of the greatest difficulties standing in the way of a realisation of a modern educational system ideal in China. In some of the southern cities teaching is in the local dialect, Mandarin and in the National Phonetic. This magnifies the problem enormously.

"The primary school system must include some provision for training the large numbers of working people during their three months of comparative leisure in winter."

Vocational training as now conducted in China is all beside the point with only one exception that has come under my own observation. I refer to the work of Hsiung Shi-ling's orphanage in Peking. He does not lay claim to being an educator but he has brought to his work a number of new and promising ideas.

MIDDLE SCHOOLS WEAKEST

The middle schools are now getting only the husks of modern education. Only the shell is being established. The study of modern subjects, such as language, mathematics and science are not with the idea that these are ever to be used. As a result of weak middle schools, when the graduates come up for examination to higher schools, many fail. In the National University examinations at Peking of one thousand candidates only sixty passed.

The future leaders of the country must come from the middle schools. The middle schools constitute the gateway to all further schools higher up. The mass of the people will never get beyond the middle schools. At present there is great economic and educational waste because of the weakness of these schools.

Without training in modern science, China can never become independent of foreign nations. Who is to do the training, Japan, the government or Christian institutions? Somebody must do it or foreign nations will continue indefinitely to exploit the natural resources of this country.

STUDENT SENTIMENT

The student attitude plays a larger part in China today than ever before with but one exception. Sometimes student sentiment is misdirected. It might be more profitable for them to move against corrupt officials than against Japan: or toward the mastery of their subjects than against teachers who try and maintain high standards. One school actually went on strike because some of the teachers dared to ask questions. The students held that the function of a teacher was to stand up and teach while they listened and thus learned their subjects, not to ask questions.

The future of modern education in China is hopeful. There is a great deal of interest among the leaders. Funds will undoubtedly be available once the government is sufficiently stablised. There are still some cities like Nanking and Canton where more money is being spent on schools of the old type than upon modern schools. There are more pupils in these old fashioned schools. In Shansi only one thousand of the fifty thousand teachers are of the old type. They have been given a smattering of modern training and set to work on modern subjects.

FOREIGN HELPFULNESS

The spread of modern education requires money. Foreigners have a fund of experience to contribute to the solution of the educational problem. In Shansi, a railroad was built to carry out coal. This road is under foreign control. Coal which costs seventy cents per ton to bring up to the mouth of a mine at the side of the tracks, costs four dollars to be hauled a distance of seventy five miles on the railroad. The Governor tried a stock-breeding experiment and took an American cowboy into his confidence. Rather it was the other way about and the cowboy made the money by bringing in a lot of worthless animals. The Governor employed an English tutor to take his sons to Europe for training. In Australia the tutor absconded with the money and left the boys stranded. The Governor employed an Austrian who claims American citizenship to help him as an educational advisor and this experiment is proving a failure. The Christian forces of the province are not giving very much help. The forces at Taiyuanfu consist of an English mission which follows a policy of exclusiveness, the Y. M. C. A., the Salvation Army and what in America are called Holy Rollers.

NEED SYMPATHY

What China needs from foreigners is not so much help as sympathy and understanding.

Dr. Monroe said he would not publish a formal report of his investigation but the recommendations would be embodied in the future activities of existing national educational associations.

Dr. Monroe will speak at the Southeastern University, Nanking, this afternoon and will return here to deliver a lecture at the Kiangsu Educational Association, West Gate, tomorrow.

Tomorrow night he will be the guest of honor at the Yih Ping Shang Restaurant where a dinner will be given by the Kiangsu Educational Association, Southeastern University, Chung Hwa Vocational Education, the Chinese Y.M.C.A., the Y.W.C.A. and the Chinese World's Students Federation.

Chinese Newspapers Are Different Now

of the word, "Fore!" If we had a few billiard rooms and banquet apartments like the Shun Pao office, we would lose fewer golf balls and wouldn't be so anxious to go home afternoons.

Though the Shun Pao is the oldest Chinese newspaper, the Sin Wan Pao claims the largest circulation. It has 80,000 subscribers, the assistant manager told us, its large list being due to the excellence of its news service, the popularity of its comic section, and the fact that it is politically neutral. Our guide showed us the comic page, but we didn't ask him to interpret the jokes, as we have trouble enough understanding the points of our own.

The Sin Wan Pao is an American corporation, we were told, with a charter from the State of Delaware. The president of the Board of Directors is Dr. John C. Ferguson of Peking. Though there are certain advantages in American protection, the Delaware charter makes the publication answerable to the United States libel laws.

Libel, by the way, has an unusual interpretation in China. Practically all the native newspapers in Shanghai accept paid advertisements calling various gentlemen horse-thieves or any other affectionate sobriquets that might appeal to the advertiser. The inserter of the notice, however, must prove his financial solvency and sign a paper promising to take all responsibility in case of trouble. Occasionally the maligned one responds by starting court action, but usually he retaliates by another advertisement, inserted at so much per square inch, in which he tells the world that the party of the first part is another and so are all his ancestors. The advertising section of Chinese newspapers must make interesting reading. Small wonder that it occupies the first page.

One of the things that most impressed us was the size of the editorial staff. We were told that there are about fifty reporters connected with the Sin Wan Pao, inlcuding those who work part time, and 130 correspondents in outports. The part time reporters receive $15 or $20 a month, while the regulars are magnificently rewarded by from $80 to $90. A heavy bonus, however, is paid for each scoop. In addition to its local service, the Sin Wan Pao receives news through Reuter's and other agencies, besides having correspondents of its own in Washington, London, Berlin, Tokio, and Paris. Three members of the staff are attending the Disarmament Conference.

Led by the obliging assistant manager, we visited the editorial rooms where typewriters were supplanted by brushes and inkslabs and cigarettes by water-pipes. In the composing room we saw massive cases of typo with workmen painstakingly setting copy from 4,000 compartments, each one containing a different character. The most modern feature of the office was the printing department, where four huge rotary presses rumble out 80,000 copies in the small hours of the morning. The first press was imported fifteen years ago and it stood idle for seven years owing to the opposition of Chinese workmen who feared that the labor saving device would lessen the number of employes. After endless difficulty, it was put into operation through the efforts of a Chinese engineer and now it has three sisters to keep it company.

The most distinctive feature of the Eastern Times is a women's section, edited by Miss Wang, and specialising on hygiene, fashions, and the advancement of women's position in industry and the home. Miss Wang is a charming pioneer in Chinese journalism and while unfortunately we can't read her page we feel certain that her resourcefulness and originality will soon force the more conservative papers to follow suit.

After we had completed our pilgrimage, we decided that even if we haven't a roof-garden and a billiard table, we'll stay where we are. We couldn't imagine ourself scrapping our Corona and trying to impale our thoughts on the inked end of a Chinese brush.

Shirley President Braces Move With the Body Action

Nearly all the machinery in the world is designed to eliminate friction.

The thought that first created SHIRLEY PRESIDENT BRACES was based on the same fundamental principle. That delicate piece of machinery, the human body, needed every help it could obtain to relieve it of friction and binding.

Carefully designed SHIRLEY PRESIDENT BRACES, with their hollow tubes mounted on swivels and cable cords that give and take with each movement, do just this.

Your Health Comes First

Good Health is your most valuable asset—its preservation should, therefore, receive your most careful consideration. An important point which should always be borne in mind is the fact that a great many forms of ill-health can be traced, directly or indirectly, to disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is wise, therefore, to keep these organs in healthy activity. When they show any signs of derangement let that reliable medicine, Beecham's Pills, be taken at once. Always deal with digestive ailments in time. They are far-reaching in their possibilities of mischief if neglected, as they too often are. And yet it is generally easy to keep fit and well and free from many debilitating ailments by the simple use of

Peking Marines XI Given Ovation On Return Home

Met By Whole Marine Corps In Lantern Parade On Tram's Arrival

(Staff Wire to China Press)

Peking, Jan. 3.—Every available American marine of the detachment stationed here is to march out from barracks tonight to the railway station to meet the 9:45 train and give greeting to the conquering football heroes who will arrive with Colonel and Mrs. Karmany after their great gridiron victory over Shanghai. The greeting is to be given on direct orders telegraphed to the Officer of the Day by Colonel Karmany.

The parade of marines marching in fours will number probably three hundred and each soldier will bear a lighted lantern. With them a big contingent of American civilians will take part in the demonstration and plan to assist bear home in triumph the football victors while the bands play, "Hail, the Conquering Hero."

Peking fans are particularly gratified over the victory and the clean reputation of the marine players and also at Shanghai's hospitality in spite of the defeat administered.

Peking, Jan. 3 (Later).—Coach Tenny when detraining at the Peking station after the trip from Shanghai on the coldest night of the winter said "Tell Shanghai that we like their climate, and expect to visit them again next year."

Two hundred and fifty marines bearing Chinese lanterns accompanied by the Marine band and many Chinese and foreign civilian friends held possession of the train platform for an hour awaiting the arrivals of the delayed train. They re-counted the winning score of the game, point by point as the football team detrained.

The champions of the Far East were escorted to their barracks assembly hall where amid cheers the story of the game was retold. Half back Albee and Quarter back Hiltibrand were given the lion's credit for the victory.

Thompson Hurt In New Year 'Unt; Pony Is Killed

Mr. A. B. Thompson sustained a broken collar bone, one pony was killed, and several riders suffered bruises as the result of falls in Monday's Paper Hunt Club 'unt, the first of the year and according to those who were in it, the hardest in history.

The event was won by G. G. C. Harper, who combined the ability of a juggler, an aquatic star and a dare devil. He rode Night Raider and was followed home by H. M. Hind on Maconchie. The next three in were V. Carten on Knight Commander: R. Watrin, on Girondin; H. Maitland on Larsen, and G. Burton, on Martinmas.

The trail, laid by H. M. Spence for Dr. Billinghurst, found every trouble locality starting from the Bridge leading up to the Yellow Joss Line until the flags were found art Hunt Memorial.

It was a terrible 'unt, an awful 'unt, said the riders.

The other semi-final, between R. C. K. Johnson and J. P. de Campos, is to be played on Friday night, either at the Marine Engineers Institute or the Masonic Club. The date has been agreed upon but arrangements for a hall had not been made.

Porter is figured to defeat Bush with Johnson beating Campos.

RIDLEY-VILLON BOUT SATURDAY FOR TWO TITLES

Manila, Dec. 23.—For the first time in the history of the fight game in Manila the titles in the feather and lightweight divisions will be fought for over the 20-round distance, when Bud Ridley, the Australian scrapper and Macario Villon meet on Jan. 7th at 126 lbs. for the Far Eastern championships of those two divisions.

No other holder of either or both of the titles in the Philippines has ever risked his crown over a route as long as 20 rounds although Pancho Villa, fly and bantam weight king of the Far East once staked his laurels over that distance against Battling Ballerino.

Neither of the principals in the approaching fight have ever fought 20 rounds, though both have been matched for the 20-round distance, but have won before reaching the limit.

Fearon Daniel Five Beat Public School Boys 44-43

Teams Play First Extra Time Game Of Season After A 39-All Tie

The first extra time game of the present Foreign League basketball season was played last night when the Fearon Daniel five and the Shanghai Public School went full time to a tie at 39, and five minutes extra were agreed to. The Hong team finally won out 44-43.

The match was one of the fastest and best and certainly the closest played this season. Honors were approximately even throughout, though at half time the Hong men were leading by a small margin.

Sheldon and Dennison scored most of the points for Fearon, Daniels on very clever passing in which all of their team assisted. The school counted mostly on Johannson's dribbling and his and Levis' shooting. The Hong men showed better combination, and with their greater strength and strong offensive broke up the School's team work almost as soon as started.

At the end of time with the score at 39 all, five extra minutes were agreed upon. Levis and Sheldon each scored a free throw tying the score again at 40, when Dennison threw two pretty

WU POSTPONES VISIT TO HANKOW

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, December 28.—The Hankow headquarters of the High Inspecting Commissioner of Hupeh and Hunan has received a telegram from General Wu Pei-fu stating that he has postponed his visit to Hankow until after the China New Year, now that he is suffering from a bad cough and breakdown in his health, brought about by overexposure and overwork during the Hunan and Szechuen fighting.

It is interpreted in official circles here that his delay in coming back to Hankow from Loyang is partly because he wants to maintain the balance of power of the Chihli faction on the Kinhan line, which joins Peking to the Yangtsze region where Wu Pei-fu's destiny is swinging in the balance, and partly due to the fact that favorable progress has been effected by him in his recent negotiations with General Liu Hsiang, Commander of Szechuen Province, who has consented not to invade Hupeh on certain peace terms which have been proposed.

Hides Won't Go On U. S. Free List

(Special To The China Press)

Washington, Jan. 2.—Acting Chairman McCumber of the Senate Finance Committee today told the shoe manufacturers who appealed to that committee that hides will not be placed on the free list when the permanent tariff bill is reported to the Senate.

The representatives of the National Boot and Shoo Manufacturers Association declared that the result of a duty on hides would be to place the meat packers in control of the shoe industry without benefit to the cattle raisers of America. The senators, however, could not agree on this.

10 Severely Hurt In Chicago Riots

(Special To The China Press)

Chicago, Jan. 1.—Ten were severely injured and seven men have been arrested as the result of a battle in the packing house district between strikers and strike-breakers. The strikers are said to have started the battle by stoning street cars and automobiles carrying the strike-breakers.

Borah Speaks To Radio Operators

(Special To The China Press)

Washington, Jan. 1.—Senator Borah of Idaho, the man who started the drive for the Conference on Disarmament, made a New Year's address on Far Eastern questions and problems through the wireless telephone to naval and amateur operators.

File Suit Against Fleet Corporation

(Special To The China Press)

Washington, Jan. 2.—The Construction and Trading Company has filed suit in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia for a writ of mandamus against the Emergency Fleet Corporation to compel the execution of a contract for the sale of approximately 285 ships, comprising wooden ships built by the government in war-time.

Szechuenese Near Ichang Reported Making No Move

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Ichang, Dec. 24.—The military situation here seems to be clearing up a little, in that no move on the part of the Szechuen troops is reported. More than a month ago, it was known that they had driven the northerners out of Shinan, and now the Szechuenese occupy all Shinan prefecture and a small part of the Ichang district. On the river the northerners still hold Patung and up to Kwantoukou.

The Provost-Marshal who was appointed to control the administration of military law while there were so many soldiers in the place, has now been withdrawn.

The people of the town were very uneasy for some time after the looting of Itu, but they are now settling down. The merchants however are making plans to resist if there should be another attempt at looting this town, for they are now building gates at the end of nearly every street both inside the city and in the suburbs, this, apparently, in the hope that future outbreaks may be localised.

BURNS MORE OPIUM

There was another burning of opium a couple of weeks ago, when about one ton of the drug was destroyed. In all more than ten tons of opium have been destroyed during this quarter by the Customs authorities. It is understood that much of it was prepared Yunnan opium of a superior quality. This opium was sold for 8,000 cash, or $4.50 per oz., so the total value of a quarter's burning may be easily calculated. The Customs authorities hope that the heavy seizures of this autumn may prove a deterrent for next year, as it is known that large tracts of Szechuen and Yunnan have been given over to the production of opium under the present military rulers.

Maritime Customs Report For 1921 Is Published

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Jan. 2.—The Maritime Customs revenue for 1921 amounts in round numbers to Haikuan Taels 54,500,000 (at the average exchange of 3s. 11d. 7-16 equal to £10,772,205) and shows an increase of Taels 5,000,000 on the previous record collection, namely, in 1920.

Although it is to be noted that as the result of the drop in the average rate of exchange from 6-9½d. in 1920, the gold equivalent of the 1921 collection at the average exchange is over £6,000,000 less than 1920.

The following are round figures of the amounts collected at the principal ports:

Harbin, Hk. Tls. 1,381,300, an increase of 448,100.

Antung, 1,062,000, a decrease of 67,500.

Dairen, 4,959,000, an increase of 56,300.

Tientsin and Chinwangtao, 6,816,900, an increase of 1,320,800.

Kiaochao, 2,139,200, an increase of 531,700.

Hankow, 3,858,200, an increase of 187,200.

Shanghai, 19,914,300, an increase of 1,081,300.

Swatow, 1,334,300, an increase of 224,400.

Canton, 3,118,400, an increase of 576,100.

The 1921 revenue from native Customs under the control of Inspector-Generals amounts in round numbers to H. K. Tls. 4,500,000 (at the above average exchange equal to £889,453), showing an increase of Taels 120,000.

All foreign loan and indemnity obligations, secured by the Customs revenues, including the Service Reorganisation Loan, and all domestic loan obligations indirectly secured on the Customs collections, have been fully met.

The above statement is signed by Sir Francis Aglen, Inspector-General of Chinese Maritime Customs.

Sale Of Work Nets $2,900 For Scouts And Girl Guides

The Officers of the Cathedral Troops of Girl Guides, Brownies Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs acknowledge with grateful thanks the sum of $2,900 being the total proceeds of the sale of work organised recently by Mrs. H. C. Marshall on behalf of the Troops funds.

At a mass parade of all the Cathedral Troops, at which over one hundred and fifty officers and members paraded, held on December 22, the Scoutmaster voiced the thanks of the Troops present explaining that the tokens of thanks handed to Mrs. Marshall by the Troop Leaders were not only ornaments but signs to call forth, on their honor, any Guide or Scout to do their duty or good turn when shown.

It was hoped also to reflect the thanks of the Troops on the numerous workers and well-wishers who made the Sale of Work such a success.

Mrs. Marshall replied expressing her pleasure at being of any service, and the embarrassment of receiving such evident gratitude.

It is proposed to give part of the founds allocated to the Cathedral School for Girls towards the establishment of Local Girl Guide Headquarters, and to reserve part for the furnishing of a clubroom and for further company equipment, and the funds allocated to the School for Boys Troops for Camp, Clubroom, and workshop equipment and "instruments for a bugle band.

The New Chiaotung Clique

BY JOSEF W. HALL

THE newspapers frequently refer to the Old Chiaotung Clique and the New Chiaotung Clique as rivals. At the time of the fall of Yuan Shih-kai certain members of the "Railway Association" which had become the Chiaotung Clique thought to save their political skins by affiliating with Japanese interests, who were understood to be opposed to Yuan Shih-kai. They became known as the "new Chiaotung Clique." These men, chiefly Tsao Ju-lin, a Shanghaiese who had been active in Communications and Finance under Yuan and Lu Chung-yu, of Chekiang, a protege of the now President Hsu, became so involved in Japanese plots to obtain control of the country through financing that the "revolt" of the student in May, 1919, was directed at them personally, and they were forced into the political background where they have since remained.

Tsao Ju-lin has maintained his position as Governor of the Bank of Communications, and Lu Chung-yu has been important in Sino-Japanese commercial and financial relations as head of the Sino-Japanese Exchange Bank. These men are useful to the Chiaotung leaders, but are still too much in the popular distaste to openly re-enter official life. Evidences are that Tao Ju-lin will have to submit to becoming the agent of Chang Tso-lin in the Bank of Communications.

The important posts in the new Cabinet not held by members of the Chiaotung faction are the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Ministry of Finance. All friends of China will be pleased that Foreign Minister Yen, who, by the way, is the son of a Christian pastor of Shanghai, holds his place.

The new Minister of Finance is Chang Hu, a native of Chekiang, and a protege of President Hsu. He gained experience in finance customs and salt in Manchuria when Hsu Shu-chang was Viceroy of Kwangtung. Upon the establishment of the republican government he assisted in the organisation of the Ministry of Finance, first at Nanking and later, under Yuan Shih-kai, at Peking. After holding several Salt Commissionerships, Chang Hu became Vice-Minister of Finance in 1913, and, for some years was associated with Sir Richard Dane in the organisation of the present Salt Gabelle, which greatly increased the salt revenue. Unlike his present Chiaotung contemporaries Chang Hu did not have the confidence of Yuan Shih-kai and was dropped out of the government when the monarchy scheme was floated.

In 1918 when China joined the Allies in the European War, Mr. Chang became Chief of the Labor Emigration Bureau. President Hsu, on assumption of office, appointed him Vice-Minister of Finance and Associate Director of the Salt Administration. He has recently been head of the Currency Reform Bureau, Chang Hu, although not a member of the Chiaotung Clique, will have no difficulty in working with its members, and will probably be absorbed into the clique. He is regarded by the Chiaotung people, who consider themselves experts on Communications and Banking, as a contemporary expert in government revenues, particularly that of the Salt, and upon currency reform.

No one expects that the new Cabinet will have much to do with the actual government of the country. High inspectors and tuchuns will continue to officiate. But the Cabinet, which is truly one of financial and railway experts, insofar as China can be said to possess such experts, is expected to have much to do with straightening out and upbuilding the state industries, i.e., railways and mines; and state banking institutions. In these things they will be guided by an enlightened self-interest, as they will take care that they share liberally in whatever profits accrue from the development of China's resources under their auspices.

This self-interest is, however, compatible with a wide-spread prosperity arising from commercial and industrial development. Especially if the new government finds a method of co-operating with foreign capital, may we look for a great encouragement of commercial and industrial activity. The present government stands more likelihood of reaching a working agreement with foreign money than any government which has preceded it. It is rumored that Liang Shih-yi came north with the backing of Sir Robert Hotung and a group of "British" Chinese capitalists.

There is, of course, the problem of interference by military chieftains. Unless this interference be restrained, the new government cannot go the whole way in reforming finances and communications, and can do hardly anything toward the reform of revenue collection. In their calmer moments the militarists realise that they must not choke the goose that lays the golden egg. And if they can be kept calm; that is, if rivalry between them can be kept down, for a time, the new government will have a chance.

At any rate, if a government of capitalist-politicians is to be tried out, the members of the Chiaotung Clique are the logical persons to conduct the experiment. It may be too early, as yet, for success. But eventually the rule of the military chieftains must be superceded by the rule of the capitalists. That is the natural trend in the Chinese political world—just as certain as industrialisation in China's economic world.

By Peter B. Kyne: "Handle Japan Question Decisively"

(Note: Mr. Kyne is the famous California Author of "Cappy Ricks" and other Novels.)

"There are but two real issues in our controversy with Japan: First, shall we Permit Her to Swallow China and Siberia? Second, Shall we Permit Japan to Regulate Our Immigration and Orientalise our Pacific States?"

The international furore which followed the refusal of the board of Education of the city of San Francisco to permit grown Japanese coolies to sit side by side in our public schools with little white girls was settled amicably, Japan won her point and her rage subsided, while we sighed with relief to think by what a narrow margin we had escaped losing the friendship of Japan and possibly having a war thrust upon us, although at the time Japan was still in a financial quagmire following her war with Russia.

We paid a heavy price for our "security" then. Weakly, disgracefully, we abandoned to this aggressive, spreading Oriental nation the most priceless heritage of a free people, to wit, our sovereignty! Yes, we did. We gave to Japan the right to regulate the emigration of her nationals to our shores rather than offend that self-assertive nation by reserving that right to ourselves.

WON JAPAN'S CONTEMPT

We were fools to have been parties to that stupid "Gentlemen's Agreement," and we ought to despise ourselves. We were worse than foolish. We lacked the courage to stand our ground then and as a result we are in the inevitable quandry of all who evade a grave issue and postpone moral decisions.

A true story will illustrate the contempt of the Japanese for things American. A long time ago a British naval officer, who shall here be nameless, left the service of his country under conditions which aroused in him an intolerable hatred for his own country. He emigrated to the Hawaiian Islands, where he purchased a small schooner and sailed west, seeking a little world of his own. He found it in one of the then Bonin Islands about two thousand miles off the coast of Asia. This island was uninhabited, although fertile.

The adventurer sailed to Samoa, secured for himself a Samoan wife and, accompanied by several Samoan men and women, returned to the Bonin island, which he proceeded to settle and populate.

Now, while this man hated the British flag, he had lived under it too long not to know its power and the universal respect which it everywhere enforced. He set a flagpole up on the beach, and from that flagpole floated the Union Jack. Japanese steamers and cruisers, ranging down past that lonely island, saw that Bonin island by for a quarter of a century without disputing its rights there to float.

JAPAN STEALS ISLAND

Time passed. The Samoan girl bore the British exile a son. In due course, this boy was sent to San Francisco to be educated, and there he imbibed a love for the United States and her institutions. His education completed, he returned to the lonely island to which he was heir and upon the death of his father, he succeeded the latter. And then he did a very foolish thing. He hauled down the Union Jack from that flag-pole on the beach and ran up the Stars and Stripes.

Shortly thereafter a passing Japanese cruiser beheld the substitution—and at once sent a boat ashore to investigate. The naive Loy explained the mystery. Two months later that Jap returned with a formidable document to prove that Japan had owned the Bonin islands for centuries—and thereupon the boy and his people were dispossessed and taken to the Ladrone Island.

Thus did Japan acquire the first of that chain of islands which extends now like a fence across the Pacific between us and the Philippine Islands.

Once they discovered Great Britain had no claim there (the Starry Banner meant nothing, in their young lives, so to speak. Now by virtue of a mandate from the Peace Conference, weakly agreed to by President Wilson, Japan has at last completed her fence across the Pacific, with the exception of Guam and Miway Island, which are no menace to her because they do not contain fortified naval bases for our Pacific fleet.

ISLANDS BARRED TO VISITS

If you who read these lines should decide to visit the islands of Truk and Laniatrek in the Caroline group, it would be interesting to learn of your experience in trying to land there. Since Japan took over that mandate she has shown a curious dislike for strangers on these islands. When a ship puts in there in distress, seeking water and provisions, water and provisions are brought to her and the crew remains aboard. We do not know what Japan is doing there, but the secrecy with which she is operating inclines one to the belief that she is up to something contrary to the powers granted her by the mandate, and the belief persists among men who devote their days and part of their nights to safeguarding our nation that Japan is storing there vast quantities of gasoline and fuel oil for a destroyer base.

People who know the policies of Japan cannot but believe that Japan will acquit herself of her mandate over the Caroline and other islands with the same meticulous honor with which she has acquitted herself in the matter of her verbal "gentleman's agreement" with the United States to restrict her emigration to certain classes of her nationals and to keep her coolie classes at home.

Since 1907, when that agreement went into effect, the Japan-

THE CHINESE MIND

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Sir—Captain Crum seems to be very fond of expounding conundrums, to be worked out by the rule-of-three, and asks that "if it took 1,500 soldiers to take the first lady of Canton to the Sun, how many would be required to bring (Mr.) Eugene Chen back to Earth?"

Knowing that I am particularly good at figures, of the common garden variety, Mr. Chen (who says he is not), has asked me to work out the problem. In doing so I shall adopt Captain Crum's own method (which is a silly method), and ask him: "If it takes 700 years to settle the political status of a certain green island, and 70,000 soldiers to keep order there, how many batallions would be required to escort certain crowned heads on a recent visit to that island?"

Again the captain has used a two-edged sword, cutting deeply into his own hand. May I suggest that Captain Crum cannot see the forest of trees on account of the large piece of timber stuck fast in his own optic, and that his arguments are nonsensical. I hope he is not color-blind, for in that case I won't take that trip through the Gorges with him.

Although Mr. Chen is sensible (he tells me) of the honor thrust upon him by the unexpected claim to cousinship on the part of Captain Crum, who bids "Eugene" to awake, my Chinese friend regrets that, as his mentality is not yet sufficiently developed properly to appreciate 20th century civilisation, as exemplified by recent events in Europe, he prefers to postpone the relationship to some future date. In the meantime he makes a concession in the way of clothes, but dreads the day when (as Captain Crum suggests) "the educated class of Chinese learn to come down to earth and apply that 20th century education, with a 20th century realism to 20th century conditions." The result would be, as Captain Crum says, "inevitable." May I venture to suggest that it would also be disastrous. What is it we teach the youth of Europe? And if 400,000,000 Chinese learn that lesson thoroughly . . . God help the world and Captain Crum.

The Chinese have many vices, some of them quite ugly ones; but they have also a great many virtues, apparently unknown to Captain Crum. If we weigh the ones against the others on the scales of justice and impartiality, it is a question whether we may not learn as much from the Chinese as we can teach them. The happiness of the world cannot be established by scientific appliances whether of an industrial or warlike character, nor whether trade is good or bad. There is something else needed, and, in spite of Captain Crum's denunciation of the Chinese, they, and others, will claim for them, that they are as well fitted, in their own way, to solve the problem that will make their country peaceful, their people happy, and the world prosperous.

One virtue, at least, Captain Crum must concede to them. They are much more polite than we Westerners. Captain Crum himself is an exception, though, for does he not flatter Mr. Eugene Chen and myself too highly by elevating us into the sphere of the immortals by omitting to label us with the plain "Mister." But Captain Crum is an exception, and it is not all foreigners who are as civil as he is.

Having said this, I ungrudgingly concede to Captain Crum a profound knowledge of the Yangtsze Gorges, but I do not think I shall be the only one who cannot accept him as authority on the extraneous matters with which he has encumbered the controversy.

I am, etc.

GORDIUS NIELSEN.

By Peter B. Kyne: "Handle Japan Question Decisively"

ese population of California has increased four-fold and that of the United States in general three-fold.

"PICTURE BRIDES" SENT

Latterly, since the situation has become acute, Japan has acted with more firmness in the matter of the emigration of laborers to America, but has adopted instead a much more efficient plan. She now exports to us as many adult females as possible, the number in some years exceeding by twice that of the males. Seventeen thousand Japanese women in California gave birth to 5,320 children in 1921. The Japanese birth rate is more than three to one greater than our birth rate.

When the so-called "picture bride" business was halted, partly at the behest of the Japanese press in the United States, the claim was advanced that all adult Japanese resident in the United States should be given the right to secure wives. Such residents were therefore aided by their Government to secure wives.

Formerly a Japanese revisiting Japan had to return to the United States within thirty days after landing in Japan or be subject to military service. The time now has been extended to ninety days, in order to give the returning son of Nippon time to seek a wife, and Governmentally subsidised Japanese steamship lines issue cut-rate round trip tickets, which enable the Jap to return to Japan, secure a wife and return to the United States at a cost no greater than the former cost of importing a "picture bride."

HOW LAW IS AVOIDED

As the legal wife of a legal resident of the United States, the Japanese bride is accorded entry and at once proceeds to do her appointed patriotic duty of begetting children. If, unfortunately, she should fail in this duty she will quickly find herself displaced by a woman who will.

The begetting of children and land is the Japanese formula for dominating the world. Some years ago an official of the Japanese consular office in Los Angeles, while adressing a mass meeting of his countrymen in Scottish Rite Hall, in San Francisco, solved the Japanese question, Japanese fashion, in four words, to wit: "Beget, beget, beget, beget!"

Nothing could be simpler, and at the rate at which the begetting is now proceeding, even a poor mathematician will have little difficulty in proving to his satisfaction that within fifty years the Japanese population in California will have to be reckoned with in politics, and within a hundred years they will control the State. Within a decade they will control Hawaii. At the present time they maintain expensive lobbies in our legislature, interfere with the passage of our laws and maintain press bureaus for the distortion of issues inimical to their race and for the dessimination of propaganda favorable to their race. They also maintain Buddhist schools for their young.

LAUGH AT CALIFORNIA

Doring the six years that followed Japan's "gentleman's agreement" to stop emigration until the second anti-Jap crusade, which resulted in the passing of an anti-Japanese land law in California in 1913, Japan played a truly Oriental game.

Evasion, official blindness or secret co-operation, apology, fair words, formal hand-shaking tours, entertainment of visiting celebrities who would be certain to carry back to the United States a most favorable opinion of Japan and things Japanese; deceit, protests, bluffs, threats, claims of treaty violations, etc., were her stock in trade, and how well she employed them is exemplified by the fact that aided by the "There, there, boys" policy of Mr. Wilson, she had carefully drawn the teeth of that first land law. It was important. The Japanese laughed at it; the diplomatic representatives of Japan in California sought the legal advice of astute white lawyers, who told them how to evade the land law and still remain within the law.

The Japanese press, bitterly denouncing the act, disseminated information on the easiest way to beat it—and the peaceful penetration of California proceeded with a rapidity that is absolutely incomprehensible even to the majority of Californians. With equal persistency, but not quite such rapidity, Oregon and Washington, particularly in the berry and garden truck districts, have been undergoing a similar transformation from white to brown.

In 1919 California, by a popular vote of three to one, put on the statute books a new land law designed to repair the weakness of the act of 1913. Again Tokio shrieked a protest. Tons of propaganda flooded California in an effort to defeat the bill.

CLAIMED TREATY VIOLATION

It was claimed that the last Alien Land law was a violation of our treaty with Japan. But Japan has never availed herself of the direct and vigorous invitation of Mr. Colby, our former Secretary of State, to have the question decided in the United States Supreme Court. Japan merely contented herself with vitrolic outpourings in both the native and California press. She desires our friendship; she feels assured that an amicable settlement can be arrived at. She is very hopeful, very oily, very polite, and still playing the same old game with the same old tactics that have proved so useful in the past.

There are but two real issues at stake in our controversy with Japan.

First—Shall we permit her to swallow China and Siberia by force of arms and control China's vast trade with other nations, or shall we insist upon fair treatment for China and the policy for the open door?

Second—Shall we permit Japan to regulate our immigration problem for us, and shall we sit supinely by and watch our Pacific States gradually become Orientalised?

The fact of the matter is that Japan has been so petted and pampered and praised that she is now like a spoiled child. If she cannot have her way she screams and threatens to fight. It is time that the spirit of the men who made America spoke in their descendants and that this situation be handled firmly, politely, but decisively.

PLAN LAUNCHED FOR NEW FLEET ON THE PACIFIC

(Special To The China Press)

San Francisco, Jan. 2.—Chairman Albert D. Lasker of the United States Shipping Board has telegraphed the Chambers of Commerce of Pacific Coast cities that President Harding has approved the tentative plans of a $300,000,000 shipping combine to operate American merchantmen on the Pacific.

Mr. Lasker said that the Shipping Board heartily approved the idea in the belief that if the United States occupied its proper place on the Pacific it is necessary for a large, popularly owned and privately operated shipping corporation, representing all interests on the Pacific Coast, and supported by the government, to be in the field. Mr. Lasker urged all the Chambers to send delegates to a conference called by Mr. Herbert Fleishbacker, who worked out the plan of the corporation.

Mr. Fleischbacker announced that the Shipping Board will abolish competition that is detrimental to American commerce, and eliminate trade jealousies. The plan he has worked out is patterned after the International Mercantile Marine and arrangements are already under way to have fifteen Shipping Board ships allocated for freight and passenger service between San Francisco, Seattle, Portland, San Diego and Los Angeles and the Far East, and Australia.

Indict Illinois Governor; Then Quash True Bill

(Special To The China Press)

Chicago, Jan. 2.—An indictment charging Governor Len Small of Illinois and Lieutenant Governor Fred Sterling with working a confidence game and embezzling large sums of money from the state funds was returned before the judge of the circuit court of Lake county at Waukegan. At the request of the state's attorney, however, the indictment against the governor was quashed and only that against Mr. Sterling stands.

The charges center around the alleged illegal practices of Small when he was state treasurer from 1917 to 1919, and similar charges against Sterling during his term as state treasurer from 1919 to 1921.

It was alleged that $10,000,000 in state funds had been placed in the Great Park Bank and loaned to Swift & Company, the packers, and that the defendants retained six out of the eight percent interest paid, the other two percent going to the state.

The strike is extending to Berlin, and the minister of communication has convened the railroad workers' organisations for new negotiations which began this afternoon. The situation undoubtedly very serious.
